

TechBriefs

Free mobile device training for farmers

There will be an opportunity over the winter for farmers to get some useful (and free) mobile device training.

The training will be free for all participants.

Anyone from the farming community can email to christine.boyle@cit.ie to let her know they are interested in taking part.

It will be part of the Smart Rural Project in the Cork Institute of Technology.

Project manager Catherine Murphy says training in mobile devices and usage will open up many new useful applications for farmers. "The training course will support farmers who want to learn more about farming apps."

The training is part of the Erasmus+ funded Smart Rural project (see smart-rural.eu/en/).